

Commerical Diving Hall of Fame

Since 2005, ADCI has inducted selected nominees into the Commercial Diving Hall of Fame. These individuals are nominated from all walks of life and represent men and women who have made a recognized and lasting contribution to commercial diving throughout their lifetime.

As background; in 2004, a decision was taken by the Board of Directors to establish the Hall of Fame with the first group of inductees being those individuals who had previously been awarded either the John B. Galletti Memorial Award (established in 1978), or the Tom Devine Memorial Award (established in 1995). The initial group numbered 33 individuals and one additional dedicated Hall of Fame selectee to represent 2004.

Of the initial group of inductees, 25 were prior John B. Galletti Memorial Award and 8 prior Tom Devine Memorial Award honorees. With the passage of time the number of nominees to the selection committee has slowed. This may be due to a lack of understanding of what the Hall of Fame is intended to represent or; simply due to the fact that as our community continues to grow the contributions of individual persons become less evident. Or; it may be that some of the individuals who deserve recognition are from small nations where the commerical diving community is not as well recognized as perhaps it is in other parts of the globe.

Whatever the reasons; the fact is that many people from our global community have dedicated their lives to improving commerical diving in one manner or another. These may be men and women who have themselves been commerical divers; developers of equipment, contributors to the medical sciences used to keep us safe from rigors of diving, safety professionals who recognize and alert us to on-the-job hazards, individuals who establish companies to employ commerical divers or others who produce improved tools for our use underwater.

As we solicit nominees for the Hall of Fame consideration please use careful thought in making your recommendations. Because an individual is a friend, a co-worker, or simply a "name" that you would like to nominate, ask yourself if that person has met the criteria of having made a recognized and lasting contribution to commerical diving during their lifetime. If so, use care in filling out the nominating form and complete supporting information. If not; then keep it in mind for the future. Remember – this is your heritage! Keep it alive and meaningful. The deadline for 2016 nominations is October 30, 2015.
